2. Description

The database ICULD-0002 contains recordings of Drenjongke words in isolation produced by 12 speakers in summer 2017. All recordings were made on TASCAM DR-100 MK-III recorder and a Shure WH-30 Headworn microphone in Gangtok, Sikkim. Drenjongke language is a Trans-Himalayan language of the Bodish subgroup spoken in Sikkim. The language is also called Lhoke, Bhutia or Sikkimese. There are an estimated 80,000 speakers of Sikkimese Bhutia, Lhoke or Drenjongke. Based on negligible phonetic differences, real differences in the form of several morphological desinences and some lexical differences, Drenjongke can be divided into eastern, southern, northern and western dialects.

5. Notes

- Each column in section 4 means the following:
  - The 'RecID' column means recording ID; DJ stands for Drenjongke followed by the serial number. Using this number, corresponding recordings can be identified from the website with the sound files.
  - The 'sound' lists target sounds in IPA; H stands for high tone; L stands for low tone.
  - The 'written' lists words in the Tibetan script.
  - The 'transliteration' is the literal representation of the Tibetan script in the roman alphabet.
  - The 'transcription' is the pronunciation.
  - The 'gloss' is the meaning of the words.
  - The 'target' refers to the category on the investigation.
- Some of the final recordings of the 12 speakers include technical errors. The error list is available on the website with the sound files.
